

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Plaintiff,

No. CR 06-0692 PJH

v.

FINAL PRETRIAL ORDER

GARY SWANSON,

Defendant.

This matter came before the court for a pretrial conference on November 7 and 8, 2007. At the hearings, the court ruled on pretrial motions, including motions in limine, as set forth below.

GOVERNMENT'S MOTIONS*1. Motion to Exclude Certain Email

The government's motion to exclude the email from Jae H. Park to Hynix employees is DENIED as moot, but the court will reserve ruling until trial on its admissibility for impeachment purposes.

2. Motion in Limine to Exclude Evidence from the ITC and DOC

Investigations and Proceedings; 3. Related Motion in Limine to Exclude Testimony from Jerry Hausman; and 4. Related Daubert Motion to Exclude Expert Testimony from Jerry Hausman and Harvey Applebaum

The government has filed three related motions that seek to exclude the introduction of evidence from and expert testimony about the International Trade Commission's ("ITC") and the Department of Commerce's ("DOC") antidumping and duty investigations and related proceedings; that seek to exclude expert testimony from Jerry Hausman and Harvey Applebaum under Daubert v. Merrell Dow Pharmaceuticals, Inc., 509 U.S. 579,

1 593-94 (1993); and that seek to exclude expert testimony from Hausman on the issue of 2 economic justification. Because the motions overlap to a significant degree, the court 3 addresses them together.

4           a. ITC/DOC Documentary Evidence

5           Previously, Swanson sought discovery of non-public materials related to the ITC and 6 DOC proceedings. The court denied the motion because Swanson could not show that the 7 materials were within the control of the Department of Justice ("DOJ"). Swanson then 8 propounded Rule 17(c) subpoenas on the DOC and ITC. The parties entered into a 9 stipulation regarding all of the materials sought by Swanson with the exception of the 10 unredacted version of the ITC's determination, the evidence supporting the ITC 11 determination, and the unredacted version of the parties' briefs and material referenced in 12 those briefs. In a July 27, 2007 order, this court granted ITC's motion to quash with respect 13 to those materials not covered by the parties' stipulation, concluding that Swanson was 14 unable to demonstrate that the briefs and related materials, which presumably contained 15 primarily third-party attorney argument, were admissible under the Federal Rules of 16 Evidence ("FRE") 803(8)(c), 801(d)(2), or 803(3).

17           With respect to the evidence supporting the ITC determination, the court also held 18 that Swanson had not demonstrated that the evidence was admissible. It found that the 19 supporting evidence presumably consisted of the testimony of other third parties, and 20 therefore was not admissible under the public record or state-of-mind hearsay exceptions, 21 nor did it constitute a party-opponent admission under FRE 801(d)(2).

22           Defendant did not request reconsideration of the court's rulings and he has not 23 provided this court with any reason to revisit its prior rulings. Accordingly, based on the 24 prior rulings, the documents subject to the prior order will not be admitted at trial for the 25 reasons stated in that order. Additionally, as for that evidence and other ITC and DOC 26 documentary evidence not covered by the court's July 27, 2007 order, the court concludes 27 that the documents have marginal, if any, probative value, and pose a substantial risk of 1 confusing and misleading the jury and of undue delay, and therefore excludes the evidence 2 under Rules 402 and 403. Accordingly, the government's motion is GRANTED as to the 3 ITC/DOC documentary evidence.

4                   b. Expert Testimony

5                 At the outset, the court notes that it has at least six briefs, in addition to an expert
6 witness summary, regarding Hausman's proposed expert testimony, and at least four briefs 7 and an expert witness summary regarding Applebaum's proposed expert testimony. In 8 spite of the stacks of briefs and two days of argument on the issue, the court remains at a 9 loss as to the defendant's position regarding the experts' testimony. Defendant's position 10 regarding the purpose of their testimony is nothing short of a moving target, and is not 11 clearly articulated in any of his briefs. Nevertheless, to the best of the court's ability, it has 12 boiled down the purposes for which Hausman's and Applebaum's expert testimony are 13 being offered into the following subject areas: (1) to explain generally the ITC and DOC 14 proceedings; (2) to demonstrate bias and motive on Micron's, and, specifically, Mike 15 Sadler's part; (3) to demonstrate the existence of multiple conspiracies; (4) to offer 16 testimony regarding the DRAM industry generally and on the existence of competition in 17 the industry; and (5) to corroborate Swanson's testimony regarding the existence of a 18 supercompetitive environment.

19                 The primary purposes for which Swanson has proffered Applebaum's expert 20 testimony – to explain the procedures and administration of a typical ITC proceeding, the 21 time that it takes to prepare an ITC petition, and to “give his opinion that the ITC DRAM 22 proceeding initiated by Micron was typical and consistent with general ITC practice” – are, 23 for the reasons discussed exhaustively on the record, of marginal, if any, relevance, and 24 pose a substantial risk of confusing and misleading the jury and of undue delay. The court 25 therefore excludes the evidence under Rules 402 and 403. To the extent that it is 26 necessary to provide the jury with some basic foundation regarding ITC and/or DOC 27 proceedings, the information shall be introduced through a neutral source, and not through 28

1 the defendant's witnesses. The parties shall meet and confer and propose a stipulated 2 instruction for the jury regarding the basic details of such proceedings. Moreover, the 3 government has agreed to stipulate that the ITC/DOC proceedings at issue conformed with 4 ITC/DOC proceedings generally. Accordingly, the government's motion to exclude expert 5 testimony from Applebaum is GRANTED. However, Applebaum may testify as a percipient 6 witness as to impeachment evidence regarding Micron and its employees' motives and/or 7 bias, and/or regarding the existence of multiple conspiracies.

8         Turning to Hausman, although Swanson has labeled Hausman as an expert, the 9 court finds that he is actually being offered as a fact witness with respect to his retention by 10 and relationship with Micron and/or Sadler in the ITC proceedings, the fact that Micron 11 allegedly concealed information from him regarding its real motive and purpose in initiating 12 the ITC proceedings, and regarding Micron's alleged multiple conspiracies targeting Hynix.
13 Hausman's proffered testimony on these bases is not based on scientific, technical, or 14 other specialized knowledge, and is therefore not admissible as expert testimony under 15 FRE 702. It also appears to the court that much of the above proffered non-expert 16 testimony is actually hearsay. However, like Applebaum, Hausman may testify as a 17 percipient witness as to impeachment evidence regarding Micron and its employees' 18 motives and/or bias, and/or regarding the existence of multiple conspiracies.

19         It appears that Swanson also seeks to present expert economic testimony from 20 Hausman. At the time that the government filed its motions in limine, it had not yet 21 reviewed Swanson's summary of Hausman's proffered expert testimony. It suspected that 22 Swanson may seek to have Hausman testify that any pricefixing agreements were 23 reasonable, fair, economically justified, and/or did not have an anticompetitive effect, which 24 it contends that he may not do. Swanson has since clarified that the government is 25 incorrect, and that he will not be offering Hausman's testimony for these purposes.
26 Nevertheless, as noted, defendant's briefs on the issue are far from clear, and present 27 quite a moving target for the court.

28

United States District Court
For the Northern District of California

1       Evidence regarding economic justification, which includes evidence that pricefixing 2 was justified by “a failing economy, failing markets, failing companies, too many suppliers, 3 too few customers, ‘unethical’ business practices such as price cutting or untrustworthy 4 purchasing agents” is irrelevant to explain or justify a per se offense such as pricefixing.
5 ABA Section of Antitrust Law, Criminal Antitrust Litigation Handbook (2d ed. 2006), at 254;
6 see also Northern Pac. Ry. v. United States, 356 U.S. 1, 5 (1958) (“there are certain 7 agreements or practices which because of their pernicious effect on competition and lack of 8 any redeeming virtue are conclusively presumed to be unreasonable and therefore illegal 9 without elaborate inquiry as to the precise harm they have caused or the business excuse 10 for their use”); United States v. Socony-Vacuum Oil Co., 310 U.S. 150, 223 (1940); United 11 States v. Alston, 974 F.2d 1206, 1208 (9th Cir. 1992) (pricefixing is illegal regardless of any 12 competitive justifications defendant may offer). Other justifications, such as “ruinous 13 competition, financial disaster, evils of price cutting and the like” are similarly irrelevant to 14 explain or justify a pricefixing charge. ABA Section of Antitrust Law, Criminal Antitrust 15 Litigation Handbook (2d ed. 2006), at 255. Accordingly, the court will NOT permit either 16 expert – or lay – witness testimony, including that from Hausman, to demonstrate economic 17 justification for or the reasonableness of any pricefixing agreements under Federal Rules of 18 Evidence 402 and 403. To the extent that Swanson seeks to admit Hausman’s testimony 19 for the purpose of corroborating his own testimony on any of these bases, neither Swanson 20 nor Hausman will be entitled to testify as to the “supercompetitive” environment for 21 purposes of justifying any agreements or decisions to fix prices.

22       The court notes, though, that “[e]conomic evidence may, however, be offered by the 23 defense in order to rebut the existence of the alleged conspiracy itself or tend to negate the 24 fact that [the alleged conspiracy] occurred.” Id.; see also id. at 309 (“[i]t should be noted 25 that the economic evidence in a per se case must be directed at showing the absence of a 26 conspiracy”); Continental Baking Co. v. United States, 281 F.2d 137 (6th Cir. 1960) (if 27 defendant denies entering into an illegal pricefixing agreement, he is permitted to present to 28

United States District Court
For the Northern District of California

1 the jury his explanation of the factors that brought about similar prices).

2 To the extent that Swanson seeks to introduce expert testimony from Hausman on 3 the above permissible basis, in its Daubert motion, the government has nevertheless 4 argued that Hausman's expert testimony should be excluded because Swanson failed to 5 disclose the documents that he relied on in carrying out his investigation of the DRAM
6 market under Rule 16(B), and under Daubert because Hausman's opinions are not reliable 7 because he has utilized unreliable economic data. Regarding Rule 16, this court agrees 8 with the district court's decision in United States v. Reliant Energy Services, that the 9 "rudiments of disclosure" require a party seeking to offer an expert witness to disclose:

- 10       1) Any reports and analyses that the expert has prepared, concerning the 11       facts of the case;
- 12       2) Copies or a specification of all documents, writings and other information 13       reviewed by the expert or on which the expert's opinions are based, in 14       sufficient detail so that the opinion rendered can be tested against that upon 15       which it is based;
- 16       3) The expert's work papers; and
- 17       4) The expert's curriculum vitae or professional resume.

18 2007 WL 640839 at *2 (N.D. Cal. 2007) (citing Rule 16 Advisory Committee Note to the 19 1993 amendment). In the event that he has not already done so and still wishes to 20 introduce expert testimony from Hausman on the permissible grounds outlined above, 21 Swanson is ORDERED to disclose the above documents to the government no later than 22 Wednesday, November 21, 2007. If Swanson fails to make the above disclosures, the 23 court will exclude Hausman's expert testimony. See Taylor v. Illinois, 484 U.S. 400, 415 24 (1985).

25 Assuming that Swanson complies with Rule 16 and this court's order, and if 26 following review of the newly-disclosed information, the government still seeks to challenge 27 Hausman's expert testimony under Daubert, the government may renew its Daubert motion 28 with respect to Hausman ONLY by filing a renewed motion no later than Monday,
December 3, 2007. Swanson's opposition, if any, is due no later than Monday,

1   December 10, 2007. The court will hear the renewed motion at 9:00 a.m. on Monday,
2   December 17, 2007. In the event that the parties seek to introduce expert testimony at the 3 hearing regarding Hausman's qualifications and/or the reliability of his proffered expert 4 testimony, the parties' experts must be present at the December 17, 2007 hearing.

5                 Finally, because Swanson asserts that he also intends to offer Hausman's and 6 Applebaum's testimony on the issue of the existence of multiple conspiracies, the court 7 notes that prior to giving a multiple conspiracies instruction, Swanson's multiple 8 conspiracies theory must be "supported by law and ha[ve] some foundation in the 9 evidence." United States v. Echeverry, 759 F.2d 1451, 1455 (9th Cir. 1985). The proof at 10 trial must indicate that a jury could reasonably conclude that some of the defendants were 11 only involved in separate conspiracies unrelated to the overall conspiracy charged in the 12 indictment. United States v. Anguiano, 873 F.2d 1314, 1317 (9th Cir. 1989).

13                 "The test for whether a single conspiracy existed, as opposed to multiple 14 conspiracies is whether there was one overall agreement to perform various functions to 15 achieve the objectives of the conspiracy." United States v. Otis, 127 F.3d 829, 835 (9th Cir.
16 1997). A single conspiracy may involve subgroups or subagreements. United States v.
17 Arbelaz, 719 F.2d 4153, 1457 (9th Cir. 1983). A single conspiracy may be identified by 18 examining characteristics including the nature of the scheme, identity of the participants, 19 nature and frequency of each conspirator's involvement, and commonality of time and 20 goals. Id. In determining whether one or more than one conspiracy is proven, the Ninth 21 Circuit has compared the differences in the period of time covered by the alleged 22 conspiracies, the places where the conspiracies were alleged to occur, the persons 23 charged as co-conspirators, the overt acts alleged to have been committed, and the 24 statutes alleged to have been violated. See id.

25                 For the above reasons, the government's motions to exclude evidence and expert 26 testimony regarding the ITC/DOC proceedings, and to exclude Hausman's and 27 Applebaum's expert testimony, are GRANTED IN PART AND DENIED IN PART.
28

1       5. Motion in Limine to Exclude SEC Filings

2           Swanson indicated that he intends to introduce nine Securities and Exchange 3 Commission (“SEC”) filings from 2001 and 2002, including four quarterly reports and two 4 annual reports filed by Micron, and a current report, registration document, and annual 5 report filed by Infineon. The government argues that the documents are hearsay and 6 irrelevant. It contends that the documents contain the views of their respective filers on a 7 number of issues, including corporate finance and competition in the DRAM market. The 8 government also asserts that the documents fail to shed any light on the existence of a 9 conspiracy to fix prices or on Swanson’s participation in such a conspiracy.

10          Swanson contends that the SEC filings will corroborate his testimony regarding the 11 competitiveness of the market, and also serve as impeachment evidence to contradict the 12 government witnesses’ testimony. He further asserts that this court may judicially notice 13 the documents, and that they are not being offered for the truth of the matters contained 14 therein.

15          The parties have not provided the court with the relevant excerpts of all of the SEC 16 filings. The government’s declaration attaches a list of the exhibits along with what appears 17 to be blank title pages for the exhibits. See Reichman Decl, at Exh. 2. Swanson, by 18 contrast, has cited to several exhibits in his trial exhibit binders and has provided page 19 numbers for the relevant excerpts. See Oppos. at 12. Unfortunately, in most cases, the 20 pertinent pages do not exist in the binders provided to the court because the exhibits 21 themselves were too voluminous to include in the binders. See, e.g., Exhibits A33 at 24; 22 A48 at 26. The only representative excerpts, as cited by Swanson, that this court has 23 available to it are from Infineon’s Form 20-F Annual Report and its Form 6-K. See Exhibits 24 A54 at 5; A56 at 5, 8.

25          This court’s review of the documents suggests that, to the extent that he seeks to 26 corroborate his own testimony regarding the competitive nature of the DRAM industry, 27 Swanson is indeed offering the documents for the truth of the assertions contained therein.
28

Otherwise, the simple fact that the statements in the SEC filings were made is of little or no relevance for corroboration purposes. Because the relevant excerpts and/or statements contained in the SEC exhibits available to this court appear to be being offered for their truth, and also appear to be hearsay, the court will not admit the statements for corroboration purposes unless and until Swanson can demonstrate that they are nonhearsay or excepted from the hearsay rule. Additionally, assuming that Swanson is subsequently able to articulate a nonhearsay basis for admission of the excerpts, this court's above ruling regarding the admissibility of economic evidence will apply to the SEC filings as well. The filings may not be admitted for the purpose of demonstrating economic justification or to show the reasonableness of any pricefixing agreements, but may only be admitted to rebut the existence of the alleged conspiracy itself.

However, the court will admit statements such as those contained in the relevant excerpts for impeachment purposes, to the extent that the statements may appropriately be attributed to a testifying government witness.

For these reasons, the government's motion to exclude the SEC filings is GRANTED IN PART AND DENIED IN PART.

4. Motion to Use FRE 1006 Summaries

The court GRANTS the government's unopposed motion to use such summaries.

5. Motion to Exclude Expert Testimony

In what it has termed a Daubert motion, the government moves to exclude Swanson's proffered experts Hausman and Applebaum, discussed above, in addition to investigator Winston Krone, and Korean translator Kwang Park, on various bases, including under Daubert v. Merrell Dow Pharmaceuticals, Inc., 509 U.S. 579, 593-94 (1993).

A. Legal Standards

Under Federal Rule of Evidence 702, "the trial judge must ensure that any and all scientific testimony or evidence admitted is not only relevant, but reliable." Daubert, 509 U.S. at 592-93. The Supreme Court later clarified that this applies not only to scientific

1 testimony, but to all expert testimony. See Kumho Tire Co. v. Carmichael, 526 U.S. 137, 2 148 (1999). In analyzing the reliability of an expert's testimony, this court considers: (1) 3 whether the theory or technique can be or has been tested; (2) whether the technique has 4 been subject to peer review and publication; (3) the known or potential rate of error; (4) the 5 existence and maintenance of standards controlling the technique's operation; and (5) the 6 general acceptance of the method within the relevant community. Daubert, 509 U.S. at 7 593-94.

8 The proponent of the evidence has the burden of satisfying Daubert and Rule 702.
9 Mueller & Kirkpatrick, 3 Federal Evidence § 7:10 (2007 Suppl.). It is within the trial court's 10 discretion whether a pretrial hearing is necessary. See United States v. Alatorre, 222 F.3d 11 1098, 1105 (9th Cir. 2000).

12 B. Kwang Park

13 Swanson has agreed to provide full translations of the documents at issue in the 14 government's motion. Pursuant to this court's ruling on the record, Swanson is ORDERED 15 to provide the government with those translations no later than Wednesday, November 16 21, 2007.

17 The government's motion regarding Park is DENIED as moot.

18 C. Winston Krone

19 Krone is a managing director of a computer investigations business, with computer 20 forensics training. He recovered and reviewed emails sent or received by Swanson in 21 conjunction with the DRAM investigation. Krone will testify based on his forensic 22 investigation of Swanson's emails, that from February 4, 2002 until July 1, 2003, nearly 23 forty-five per cent of Swanson's emails in his inbox were unread or unopened. He will 24 testify similarly for the period June 29, 2001 through February 3, 2002.

25 The government contends that Krone's methodology is inherently unreliable and that 26 his investigation was incomplete. It contends that computer users can readily alter the 27 "read" or "unread" designation of an email, and that "no expert can reliably opine that a user 28

1 did not read a particular email merely because the metadata states 'unread.'"

2       The government also questions the data Krone relied on, and notes that Krone relied 3 on data from limited periods during the conspiracy and on data from a period after the end 4 of the conspiracy to make broad assumptions and conclusions regarding the emails that 5 Swanson allegedly read and did not read. It also notes that Krone failed to consider emails 6 from a relevant period during which the conspiracy is alleged to have taken place, from 7 April 1, 1999 to June 29, 2001.

8       In addition to the above Daubert issues, the government argues that Swanson
9 violated Rule 16(B) by failing to allow the government to inspect and copy the hard drive 10 reviewed by Krone and by failing to disclose Krone's subsequent results regarding his 11 investigation of additional emails provided to Swanson by the government, and that 12 Swanson should therefore be prohibited from introducing Krone's testimony.

13       As stated on the record, the court finds that Rule 16(B) requires Swanson to disclose 14 the hard drive and the other information requested by the government with respect to 15 Krone. See United States v. W.R. Grace, 493 F.3d 1119, 1131-32 (9th Cir. 2007); see also 16 Reliant Energy Serv., Inc., 2007 WL 640839 at *2. Swanson has not provided a sufficient 17 explanation regarding his failure to comply with Rule 16(B) by the October 26, 2007 18 deadline. Accordingly, this court ORDERED Swanson to disclose the hard drive and 19 information no later than Wednesday, November 14, 2007. As stated on the record, if 20 Swanson fails to disclose the hard drive and information by that date, the court will exclude 21 Krone's testimony. See Taylor v. Illinois, 484 U.S. 400, 415 (1985).

22       Assuming that Swanson complies with this court's order, and following the 23 government's investigation of the hard drive and additional information, the government 24 may renew its Daubert motion with respect to Krone ONLY by filing a renewed motion no
25 later than Monday, December 3, 2007. Swanson's opposition, if any, is due no later 26 than Monday, December 10, 2007. The court will hear the renewed motion at 9:00 a.m.
27 on Monday, December 17, 2007. In the event that the parties seek to introduce expert 28

1 testimony at the hearing regarding Krone's qualifications and/or the reliability of his 2 proffered expert testimony, the parties' experts must be present at the December 17, 2007 3 hearing.

4 DEFENDANT'S MOTIONS

5 1. Motion to Exclude Evidence that Swanson Participated in a Conspiracy 6 Prior to April 1, 2001, and to Exclude Evidence Related to an Alleged 7 Conspiracy Prior to April 1, 1999

8 The indictment charges an overall conspiracy "from on or about April 1, 1999 until on 9 or about June 15, 2002." The government filed a March 2, 2007 summary, which, pursuant 10 to the parties' stipulation, the court previously ordered would constitute a bill of particulars 11 pursuant to Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 7(f). Both the indictment and the March 12 2007 summary charge Swanson with joining in and participating in the conspiracy "from on 13 or about April 1, 2001, until on or about June 15, 2002." The March 2007 summary 14 described events occurring "during the relevant period," which the summary defines as the 15 period "on or about April 1, 2001 to on or about June 15, 2002."

16 An amended summary filed by the government on October 10, 2007, also to 17 constitute a bill of particulars pursuant to Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 7(f), contains 18 a section regarding "how the conspiracy began" that was not included in either the 19 indictment or the March 2007 summary. That section references events occurring "as early 20 as 1998." It also contains a section entitled "summary of evidence against Gary Swanson." 21 The October 2007 summary notes that Swanson's meetings and conversations with 22 competitors "started sometime in 1999 and continued through the relevant period." The 23 October 2007 summary also notes that Swanson's awareness of other Hynix managers' 24 participation in the conspiracy and his direction to subordinate employees to fix prices 25 began "as early as 1998, continuing through the relevant period." By contrast, the March 26 2007 summary simply stated that the above events occurred "during the relevant period" 27 (defined as April 1, 2001 - June 15, 2002).

28

1       Swanson argues that the amended summary alters the dates on which he is alleged 2 to have joined the conspiracy, and also that it has changed the date that the overall 3 conspiracy began. He argues that the amended summary therefore constitutes an 4 impermissible constructive amendment of the indictment, and also that the amendment is 5 contrary to the requirements of justice. Swanson requests the court to exclude from trial: 6 (1) any evidence that Swanson participated in or joined the conspiracy beyond the period of 7 April 1, 2001 to June 15, 2002, as set out in the indictment and in the government's March 8 2007 summary; and (2) any evidence related to the alleged conspiracy by any person prior 9 to April 1, 1999, as set forth in the indictment.

10       In its trial brief and in opposition to Swanson's motion, the government argues that it 11 is seeking to introduce evidence that pre-dates the conspiracy period and that pre-dates 12 Swanson's participation in the conspiracy only to provide the jury with the full context of the 13 crime and to show how the conspiracy began. See Old Chief v. United States, 519 U.S.
14 172, 189 (1997). It argues that it is important that the jury hear the full story of the crime, 15 and that pre-conspiracy evidence that tells the "beginning" of the story constitutes non-Rule 16 404(b) "other act" evidence that is admissible because it is inextricably intertwined with the 17 charged conduct, and is therefore exempt from Rule 404(b)'s requirements. It contends 18 that the evidence is necessary "to permit the prosecutor to offer a coherent and 19 comprehensible story regarding the commission of the crime" and to "explain either the 20 circumstances under which particular evidence was obtained or the events surrounding the 21 commission of the crime." United States v. Vizcarra-Martinez, 66 F.3d 1006, 1012 (9th Cir.
22 1995). Alternatively, the government argues the evidence is admissible under Rule 404(b) 23 as proof of motive, opportunity, intent, preparation, plan, knowledge, identity, or absence of 24 mistake or accident.

25       The government further argues that the amended summary does not amount to a 26 constructive amendment to the indictment because it incorporates all of the terms of the 27 indictment by reference, and has not changed the time period during which Swanson was 28

1 involved in the conspiracy. It additionally asserts that the amended summary is not unfairly
2 prejudicial to Swanson, and contends that Swanson received all of the information 3 contained in the amended summary through discovery, including interview memoranda and 4 depositions produced to him nearly one year ago.

5 For the reasons stated on the record, the court concludes that the amended 6 summary does not constructively amend the indictment. An amendment of the indictment 7 occurs when the charging terms of the indictment are altered, either literally or in effect, by 8 the prosecutor or a court after the grand jury has last passed upon them. United States v.
9 Adamson, 291 F.3d 606, 614 (9th Cir. 2002). A constructive amendment exists if “there is 10 a complex set of facts presented at trial distinctly different from those set forth in the 11 indictment,” or if “the crime charged in the indictment was substantially altered at trial, so 12 that it was impossible to know whether the grand jury would have indicted for the crime 13 actually proved.” United States v. Bhagat, 436 F.3d 1140, 1145-46 (9th Cir. 2006). The 14 mere fact that the government seeks to introduce evidence outside the time period charged 15 in the indictment does not in and of itself work a constructive amendment of the indictment, 16 particularly when the government has already assured Swanson and the court that it is not 17 seeking to alter the time period(s) charged in the indictment. See, e.g., United States v.
18 Cusimano, 148 F.3d 824, 828-29 (7th Cir. 1998) (rejecting argument of coconspirator 19 defendants, who were charged in drug conspiracy, that admission of evidence of the 20 defendants’ relationship and conduct dating prior to the conspiracy charged in the 21 indictment worked a constructive amendment of indictment, and noting that “the 22 introduction of evidence of pre-conspiratorial events does not by itself create a constructive 23 amendment of the indictment”).

24 The court also determined that the “background” evidence is admissible as evidence 25 that is excepted from Rule 404(b) because it is “inextricably intertwined” with the charged 26 offense and necessary for the government to present a coherent and comprehensible story 27 regarding the alleged pricefixing conspiracy. See United States v. Beckman, 298 F.3d 788, 28

1 794 (9th Cir. 2002); see also United States v. DeGeorge, 380 F.3d 1203, 1220 (9th Cir.
2 2004); Vizcarra-Martinez, 66 F.3d at 1012. Alternatively, the court concludes that the 3 evidence may be admissible under Rule 404(b) to show preparation, opportunity, intent, 4 and motive, depending on the particular piece of evidence and the purpose for which it may 5 be proffered. See United States v. Portac, 869 F.2d 1288, 1297 (9th Cir. 1989).

6       The court will, however, give the jury appropriate limiting instruction(s), advising 7 it that the evidence may not be used to determine whether or not Swanson committed the 8 charged offense. See United States v. Hooten, 662 F.2d 628, 635 (9th Cir. 1981).

9       Having ruled on the admissibility and amendment issues, the court heard Swanson's 10 motion for a continuance on November 8, 2007. Swanson argued in his motion in limine 11 and in his November 7, 2007 request for a continuance of the November 26, 2007 trial 12 date, that he was unfairly prejudiced by the amended summary because he focused his 13 preparation exclusively on the period from April 1, 2001 to June 15, 2002, the period that 14 the indictment alleges he participated in the conspiracy. However, as the court noted on 15 the record, even though Swanson is not alleged to have joined the conspiracy until April 1, 16 2001, established law provides that he is bound by what preceded him. See U.S. v. U.S.
17 Gypsum Co., 333 U.S. 364, 393 (1948) (statements made by conspirators during the 18 conspiracy, but prior to the defendant's joining the conspiracy, are admissible because 19 latecomers to a conspiracy assume the risk and responsibility for what has already 20 happened). Thus, in preparing for trial, Swanson appears to have inappropriately narrowed 21 his review of the evidence to begin at the time when he was alleged to have joined the 22 conspiracy on April 1, 2001, when instead, at a minimum, he should have focused on 23 evidence throughout the alleged life of the conspiracy, from April 1, 1999 until on or about 24 June 15, 2002.

25       The court noted that in considering whether Swanson was entitled to a continuance, 26 the issue more appropriately concerned the introduction of evidence regarding events prior 27 to April 1, 1999, the date when the conspiracy was alleged to have begun. It is clear to the 28

1 court that the amended summary references events prior to this date, while the indictment 2 and March 2007 summary do not. It is also clear that Swanson did indeed receive 3 discovery from the government nearly a year ago, including interview memoranda, that 4 referenced pre-1999 events, as described by the amended summary. Swanson concedes 5 that this is the case, but notes that in setting parameters for reviewing the voluminous 6 discovery in this case, defense counsel limited their review to the period from April 2001
7 through June 2002.

Because defense counsel has not focused on evidence prior to April 1999 (or April 2001, for that matter), it is evident that Swanson will be prejudiced in his ability to fairly defend against any inculpatory “background” evidence. See United States v. Espericueta-Reyes, 631 F.2d 616, 623 (9th Cir. 1980). Swanson has made a sufficient showing as to his inability to overcome any potential prejudicial effect both in his counsel’s declaration and in his motion in limine. Id. Given the size of this case and the volume of discovery, the court is concerned about what appears to be late notice on the government’s part regarding its intent to introduce the pre-April 1999 background evidence. However, it does not find that the government has violated any court orders, rules, statutes, or otherwise in amending its summary. Thus, the court has concluded that a continuance, as opposed to exclusion of the evidence, is the appropriate remedy. See United States v. Gatto, 763 F.2d 1040 (9th Cir. 1985); United States v. Schwartz, 857 F.2d 655 (9th Cir. 1988).

20 Accordingly, the court DENIES Swanson's motion to exclude the evidence, but 21 GRANTS his motion for a continuance. The trial is continued to Monday, February 4, 22 2008. More specific details and deadlines follow in this order.

26 Swanson asserts that a number of documents included on the government's exhibit 27 list refer to memory products that are not DRAM products, such as hard disk drive

1 products, as well as sales to buyers other than the OEMs listed in the indictment. Swanson
2 argues that evidence regarding non-DRAM products and other OEMs would substantially 3 prejudice his defense and should be excluded.

4 Swanson also asserts that several of the government's exhibits reference bidrigging 5 auctions, and he seeks to have any such references excluded, arguing that it will be unduly 6 prejudicial for the jury to hear evidence regarding bidrigging at auctions in the instant 7 pricefixing case because it is necessary to separate out unrelated conspiracies from that 8 charged against him.

9 As stated on the record, the court DENIES Swanson's motion to exclude the 10 bidrigging references given language in the indictment specifically referencing bidrigging.
11 Additionally, bidrigging may itself be part of a pricefixing conspiracy, and is not necessarily 12 an "offspring" or "separate" conspiracy as argued by Swanson. See ABA Section of 13 Antitrust Law, Antitrust Law Developments (6th ed. 2006), at 88 & n. 489 (noting that 14 "[c]ourts repeatedly have held that conspiracies to submit noncompetitive rigged bids are a 15 species of price fixing and thus constitute per se violations of Section 1" and listing cases).

16 As for the non-DRAM and other-OEM evidence, the government has agreed not to 17 proffer six of the seven exhibits challenged by Swanson. As for the remaining exhibit, the 18 court GRANTS Swanson's motion to exclude the email under FRE 403 because its 19 probative value is outweighed by the danger of undue consumption of time, prejudice, and 20 the likelihood of confusion. The court, however, declines to issue a blanket ruling as to all 21 non-DRAM and other-OEM evidence, although future rulings will probably be similar to that 22 with respect to the exhibit already considered.

23 The court further rejects the government's argument that emails, such as that at 24 issue in this motion, constitute non-hearsay business records under FRE 803(6). In the 25 Ninth Circuit, a business record is admissible when (1) it is made or based on information 26 transmitted by a person with knowledge at or near the time of the transaction; (2) in the 27 ordinary course of business; and (3) is trustworthy, with neither the source of information 28

1 nor method or circumstances of preparation indicating a lack of trustworthiness. United 2 States v. Bonallo, 858 F.2d 1427, 1435 (9th Cir.1988). In Monotype Corp. PLC v.
3 International Typeface Corp., 43 F.3d 443 (9th Cir. 1994), the Ninth Circuit held that an 4 email message from an employee to his employer was not admissible under Rule 803(6) 5 because an "ongoing electronic message and retrieval system," was not a sufficiently 6 systematic business activity to justify the message's admission. The court finds that emails 7 such as this one are not sufficiently trustworthy to be admissible under Rule 803(6).

8 Moreover, the court also finds that emails such as the one at issue in this motion 9 would not typically constitute present sense impressions under FRE 803(1). There are 10 three requirements for a statement to qualify as a present sense impression under Rule 11 803(1): (1) The declarant must have personally perceived the event described; (2) the 12 declaration must be a simple explanation or description of the event; and (3) the declaration 13 and the event described must be contemporaneous. See 5 Weinstein's on Evidence, 14 Hearsay Exceptions, § 803.03 [1]. The court is concerned that many of the emails included 15 as exhibits to the parties' pretrial papers are interpretive rather than descriptive. Unless the 16 above requirements are satisfied, the court will not admit the email(s) under FRE 803(1).

17 For these reasons, Swanson's motion is GRANTED IN PART AND DENIED IN 18 PART.

19 RELATED MOTIONS OF BOTH PARTIES

20 1. Motions in Limine re: Admissibility of Plea Agreements

21 For the reasons set forth on the record, testimony regarding individual and corporate 22 plea agreements and the amnesty agreement, and the agreements themselves, are 23 admissible. The court sees no reason to exclude the Infineon plea agreement; and, in the 24 event that Infineon employee Dennis Lee testifies, finds that the Ninth Circuit's reasoning in 25 United States v. Halbert, 640 F.2d 1000, 1004 (9th Cir.1981), and Portac, 869 F.2d at 26 1296, is equally applicable to the Infineon agreement.

27 The government is permitted to reference the existence of the plea agreements 28

1 during its opening argument, but may not reference the truthfulness provision 2 of the plea agreements until the credibility of a witness testifying pursuant to a plea and/or 3 amnesty agreement has first been attacked by the defense. See United States v.
4 Necochea, 986 F.2d 1273, 1278 (9th Cir. 1993); but see also United States v. Monroe, 5 943 F.2d 1007, 1014 (9th Cir. 1991) (“[w]e have made clear that references to 6 requirements of truthfulness in plea bargains do not constitute vouching when the 7 references are in response to attacks on the witness’ credibility”). Accordingly, to the 8 extent that the government seeks to publish to the jury any of the plea and/or amnesty 9 agreements prior to a challenge to that witness’ credibility, the truthfulness provision 10 contained in the respective plea agreement must first be redacted.

11 Additionally, the court will give the jury a limiting instruction providing that it is not to 12 consider the evidence with respect to the defendant’s guilt at the time the evidence of the 13 plea agreement is admitted and again in final instructions. Halbert, 640 F.2d at 1006.

14 Finally, information regarding fines and penalties must be redacted from the 15 corporate plea and/or amnesty agreements.

16 For these reasons and those stated on the record, the government’s motion is 17 GRANTED IN PART AND DENIED IN PART, and defendant’s motion is GRANTED IN 18 PART AND DENIED IN PART.

19 2. Hynix Sentencing Memo

20 In the parties’ pretrial statement, defendant has requested an explanation from the 21 government regarding language contained in Hynix’s sentencing memo. However, 22 defendant is unclear as to what form this further clarification or explanation should take, 23 and has not provided any authority compelling the government to provide him with such 24 explanation. The sentencing memo, which is akin to a brief that contains parties’ 25 arguments, is itself not admissible. Because it not clear to the court what relief, if any, 26 Swanson seeks, the request is DENIED.

1           3. Co-Conspirator Statements

2           This issue will be resolved by separate order.

3           JURY INSTRUCTIONS

4           The court provided the parties with a tentative ruling on the proposed jury 5 instructions submitted at the time of the November 7, 2007 pretrial conference as follows.

6           The court will give the following instructions with no further modifications:

- 7       • Govt. 1, Presumption of Innocence
- 8       • Govt. 3, Essential Elements of Sherman Act
- 9       • Govt. 7, Ignorance of Antitrust Laws No Defense
- 10      • Govt. 9, Sherman Act Conspiracy - Proof of Overt Act Unnecessary
- 11      • Govt. 10, Conspiracy- Knowing of and Association with Other Coconspirators
- 12      • Govt. 11, Conspiracy- Liability of Superiors

13      The court declines to give the following instructions:

- 14      • Def. 1, Presumption of Innocence
- 15      • Def. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 (relating to plea agreements)
- 16      • Def. 8, Conspiracy- Elements
- 17      • Def. 9, Multiple Conspiracies
- 18      • Govt. 6, Knowingly Defined

19      Def. 10, Proof that Defendant Knowingly Joined and Participated in an Alleged 20      Conspiracy

- 21      • Def. 11, Conspiracy- Liability of Superiors
- 22      • Def. 13, Consideration of Circumstantial Evidence
- 23      • Def. 14, Source of Information
- 24      • Def. 15, Parallel Conduct
- 25      • Def. 16, Acting on Competitive Information
- 26      • Def. 17, Publicly Available Information

27      The court ORDERS the parties to meet and confer regarding the following

1 instructions. In terms of the plea agreement instructions, the court finds the government's 2 proposed instruction number 2 to be more streamlined and accurate than defendant's 3 related instructions 2-7. The court will give the government's proposed instruction, but the 4 instruction must be modified to include language regarding witness benefits, as proffered 5 by Swanson, and also to eliminate reference to the truthfulness provisions of the plea 6 agreements, to the extent the instruction will be used prior to any attack on the witness' 7 credibility. The parties shall draft two versions of this instruction, one to be utilized prior to 8 any credibility challenge, and one that may appropriately be used once the witness(es)' 9 credibility has already been attacked.

- 10       •     Govt. 4, Pricefixing Per Se Illegal. The parties shall meet and confer 11 regarding additional language from the ABA Model Instruction No. 54 that should be 12 included in the proffered instruction.
13       •     Definition of Knowingly. The parties shall meet and confer regarding an 14 instruction that properly defines "knowingly." The government's proffered instruction, based 15 on the Ninth Circuit model instructions, has not been tailored for an antitrust case.
16 Swanson's instruction is confusing, and inaccurate in places.

17           The court advises the parties that they may wish to consult the ABA Section of 18 Antitrust Law, Criminal Antitrust Litigation Handbook (2d ed. 2006), at 407 for guidance.

- 19       •     Def. 12, Statute of Limitations- Conspiracy. The parties shall meet and 20 confer regarding elimination of the last paragraph of this proffered instruction.

21           Additionally, the court notes that the government's proffered instruction, no. 5, 22 Sherman Act Mens Rea, is not available to the court. The edition of the Federal Jury 23 Practice and Instructions treatise on which the government relies (4th ed.) has since been 24 updated. The government is ORDERED to provide Swanson and the court with a copy of 25 the model instruction on which this proffered instruction is based.

26           The court will take under submission the government's proffered instruction no. 8, 27 Deliberate Ignorance, and advise the parties of its ruling regarding this instruction no later 28

1 than the January 16, 2008 pretrial conference.

2 The parties shall revise the instructions as directed for submission along with any 3 new joint instructions required by this order and any limiting instructions required by this 4 order no later than December 10, 2007. Additionally, the stipulation/instruction describing 5 the ITC/DOC proceedings shall be submitted by the same date.

6 OTHER PRETRIAL RULINGS AND INSTRUCTIONS

7 a. Trial Date: Jury trial will begin on February 4, 2008, at 8:30 a.m., in 8 Courtroom 3, 17th Floor, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, California. The 9 anticipated length of trial is 12 days.

10 b. Subsequent Pretrial Conference: A subsequent pretrial conference will be 11 held on January 16, 2008, at 1:30 p.m., in Courtroom 3, 17th Floor. The attorneys who will 12 try the case shall attend the conference.

13 c. Narrow Purpose for Continuance/ No Further Pretrial Motions in Limine:

14 As stated on the record on November 8, 2007, the continuance granted to Swanson 15 is for the sole purpose of allowing him to effectively prepare for trial with respect to the pre-16 April 1999 background evidence. The parties will NOT be allowed to expand the case 17 beyond that presented in conjunction with the November 7 and 8, 2007 pretrial 18 proceedings. Additionally, the court will not hear any additional pretrial motions at the 19 January 16, 2008 pretrial conference. The record may only be supplemented by a revised 20 witness and/or exhibit list required by defendant's review of the pre-1999 evidence provided 21 by the government.

22 d. Amendments to Exhibit/Witness Lists: The parties may file and serve 23 amended exhibit and witness lists no later than January 9, 2008.
